Respected Teachers and Dear Students:
From 2020, schools will conduct final assessment of grade 5, on their own, using the items sent by Punjab Examination Commission (PEC) for paper development. PEC has prepared model papers using standardized items. This pattern should be followed in upcoming School Based Assessments of grade 5. Given below is the paper pattern and guidelines for teachers for optimum utilization of these assessments for teaching and learning.

Test Description of English

Written English Exam
The exam is divided into two sections i.e. Objective and Subjective Sections.
1. Part – A (Objective Type)
2. Part – B (Subjective Type)

1. Part – A (Objective Type)
Students will answer 25 multiple-choice questions. It has one section.

1.1. Lexical and Formal Aspects of Language and Oral Communication Skills
Lexical and Formal Aspects of Language and Oral communication skills (which can be tested using paper and pencil test) are reflection of Curriculum-2006. In this section of paper approximately 25 multiple choice questions (see Objective Paper. Number of questions may vary) will be constructed.

2. Part – B (Subjective Type)
It will have two sub sections.

1.1. Writing Skills
1.2. Reading and Thinking Skills

1.1. Writing Skills.
The subjective part gives an opportunity to show how effectively a student can develop and express his / her ideas in writing. This part of paper will consist of approximately 4 OEQs (Open Ended Questions based on competency of writing skills (see Subjective Paper. Number of questions may vary). OEQs (see Subjective Paper) will be assessed on how clearly and effectively a student expresses his opinion.

1.2. Reading and Thinking Skills.
In this section some parts are given from seen/unseen sources. The prompts (prose and poetry); are designed to stimulate critical thinking and all questions are based on the National Curriculum focusing on Student Leaning Outcomes (SLOs). Seen and Unseen passages (prose and poetry); based on the weightage of National Curriculum, will be part of this section. Students will be asked to read the given comprehension passages and answer questions (see Subjective Paper. Number of questions may vary). Approximately 8 questions (see Subjective Papers. Number of questions may vary) will be assessed in this section.
Guidelines for English Teachers

- The model papers are true reflection of National Curriculum. Similarly the exams will also be reflection of all the changes which are part of National Curriculum i.e. Competencies, Standards, Benchmarks and SLOs. Keeping this factor in mind it is strongly recommended to promote SLOs based teaching and learning.

- There is a gradual shift from a generic mark scheme to specific one. Each question will also be dealt individually in terms of its marking. Marking schemes (see Rubrics) are part of these model papers as a guideline to let all the teachers and students alert about this change.

- New concepts may have different levels of difficulty presenting a reflection of National Curriculum 2006. Prepare your students accordingly for examination.

- Promote creative writing by introducing new topics to the students. Involve students in more creative writing activities. Discourage rote learning.

- Encourage students to read additional reading material which may help them to enhance their knowledge and critical thinking skills. Ultimately this reading habit will lead them to improve their vocabulary and information ending up to creativity.

- Design SLOs based monthly / weekly tests to promote creative writing and concept based learning.

- Subjective and objective parts of papers should be given equal importance.
